

I am strongly opposed to allowing electrical power companies to provide broadband internet service over existing power lines. This will almost undoubtedly render most high frequency bands unusable. There is already too much noise generated by power lines in the spectrum. There are plenty of other ways to deliver broadband service via DSL, cable modem, fiber optic lines, etc. Power companies have plenty of work to do in improving electrical power service and should stick to that business.